FUND AIM

The fund aims to track the performance of the benchmark to within +/-0.5% p.a. for two years out of three

CHARGES

In addition to the total yearly investment charge, an administration charge is taken from the value of your savings. The amount of this charge is shown on the Trust Benefit Summary. You will need to log in to My Account to see this document.

The administration charge is not reflected in the fund performance figures, meaning the figures shown will be a little higher than any growth on your savings.

FUND CHARACTERISTICS

The Fund employs an index tracking strategy, aiming to replicate the performance of its benchmark. Legal & General Investment Management takes a pragmatic approach to managing index funds, either investing directly in the securities of that index, or indirectly through other Legal & General Investment Management funds. The Fund may also hold index and single stock futures for efficient portfolio management.

INDEX FUND MANAGEMENT TEAM

The Index Fund Management team comprises 25 fund managers, supported by two analysts. Management oversight is provided by the Global Head of Index Funds.

KEY RISKS

- The Fund invests in equities (shares of companies), so there is a higher risk of the Fund's value being volatile (i.e. going up and down) than with a Fund which invests in most other asset types, particularly in the short term.
- The Fund may hold assets in currencies that are not denominated in sterling. If the value of these currencies falls compared to sterling this may cause the Fund's value to go down. Some Funds may employ currency hedging as a means of protecting the Fund's value against currency movements. In extreme market conditions, the hedge may not be perfect and the Fund may be exposed to currency changes.
- The Fund may undertake derivative transactions as part of efficient portfolio management ("EPM") or reduction in investment risk in line with the Historic FCA Permitted Links rules. In line with the Historic FCA Permitted Links EPM rules derivatives can be used; where it is economically efficient to do so, to reduce cost, or generate additional income. Derivatives may have greater volatility than the securities or markets they relate to. A change in value of a derivative may not correlate to a change in value of the underlying instruments. This may result in losses greater than the direct investment in those securities or markets. OTC derivatives contracts may be held indirectly through investments by the Fund in one or more Collective Investment Scheme and are valued using vendor supplied, model based and/or counterparty based data. The actual proceeds realised (or in the case of subscriptions units allocated) may be affected by, for example, differences in valuation model approaches utilised by the Collective Investment Scheme(s), their OTC counterparties and third party vendors.
- The Fund invests in emerging markets where there may be limited information available publicly to investors. In general, emerging market issuers are not subject to accounting, auditing and financial standards and requirements similar to those required of developed market issuers. Also, local laws may prevent the repatriation of capital or profit from those countries into the UK. In addition, the stock markets and currencies of emerging markets can be volatile, due to the fact that the political and economic systems in these countries are still developing. For some emerging markets, e.g. Russia, certain securities transactions may not follow developed market settlement conventions. In such cases delays in settlement may cause the Fund to have exposure to a third party broker or counterparty. This may result in a greater risk that the value of the Fund might go down. The investments in these markets might also be bought and sold infrequently therefore resulting in large changes in their prices.
