INDEX FUND MANAGEMENT TEAM

The Index Fund Management team comprises 25 fund managers, supported by two analysts. Management oversight is provided by the Global Head of Index Funds.

KEY RISKS

- The Fund invests in equities (shares of companies), so there is a higher risk of the Fund's value being volatile (i.e. going up and down) than with a Fund which invests in most other asset types, particularly in the short term.
- The Fund may hold assets in currencies that are not denominated in sterling. If the value of these currencies falls compared to sterling this may cause the Fund's value to go down. Some Funds may employ currency hedging as a means of protecting the Fund's value against currency movements. In extreme market conditions, the hedge may not be perfect and the Fund may be exposed to currency changes.
- The Fund invests in emerging markets where there may be limited information available publicly to investors. In general, emerging market issuers are not subject to accounting, auditing and financial standards and requirements similar to those required of developed market issuers. Also, local laws may prevent the repatriation of capital or profit from those countries into the UK. In addition, the stock markets and currencies of emerging markets can be volatile, due to the fact that the political and economic systems in these countries are still developing. For some emerging markets, e.g. Russia, certain securities transactions may not follow developed market settlement conventions. In such cases delays in settlement may cause the Fund to have exposure to a third party broker or counterparty. This may result in a greater risk that the value of the Fund might go down. The investments in these markets might also be bought and sold infrequently therefore resulting in large changes in their prices.
- The investment policy applied to this Fund may mean that it cannot invest in some companies or in certain sectors (for example tobacco or coal mining). These restrictions mean that should the sectors in which the Fund cannot invest be the best performing ones the value of the Fund will not increase as strongly as the value of Funds which can invest in these sectors.
