

Notification of National Security Vetting- Security Check (SC) Level- Date: 18/02/2022

Dear Thomas,

I am pleased to inform you that you have now satisfied the requirements of the Security Check (SC) clearance.

The expiry date of your clearance is 11/12/2027.

This clearance is sponsored by the MOD.

SC clearance enables long-term, frequent and uncontrolled access to assets protectively marked SECRET and occasionally TOP SECRET (with supervision). In all cases a clear 'need to know' must exist. Please note your clearance may be subject to certain restrictions depending on your circumstances. If applicable, you will be informed of these restrictions separately.

The clearance will usually be valid for a period of ten years, assuming nothing happens to affect your status; please see details beneath. Personnel security is an ongoing process and as such, keeping your clearance is contingent upon maintaining good security and reporting any changes in your circumstances.

National security vetting exists to provide a level of assurance as to the trustworthiness, integrity, reliability, and resilience of an individual to handle sensitive government information or assets. Your SC clearance allows you to have access to sensitive assets, the compromise of which, accidental or otherwise may constitute a criminal offence. As well as following security procedures you have a substantial responsibility to act at all times in a way that will not put you at risk of being unduly influenced, exploited or blackmailed, and to uphold the reputation of KPMG.

Vetting is an ongoing process, relevant to the requirement of your job and potentially affected by the changes and actions in your professional and personal life. If you have questions or concerns at any point please talk to your Line Manager or KPMG's security vetting team. It is much easier to discuss and address an issue at an early stage than after concerns have been raised.

You and your Line Manager must read about maintaining security clearances by reading the documents linked here.

If you are in an SC role you have a responsibility to notify KPMG's security vetting team and the issuing authority if following the granting of your clearance you:

- Marry/form a Civil Partnership or have a new or change of partner (with whom you live as a couple);
- Are arrested, are refused bail, receive a Police caution, reprimand, or final warning; or are convicted of an offence (other than minor road traffic) offences;
- Have a significant change in your financial circumstances, meaning something that makes a real difference to your financial situation, for example, are subject to any type of insolvency proceedings; court repayment plan; major reduction in income; increase in expenditure; more debt that can be managed, etc;
- Acquire a new nationality or renounce a nationality that you previously held

Such a change could affect your SC clearance but each case would be examined carefully and any action on security clearance would depend on the nature of the change/offence. Failure to disclose a change, particularly where a criminal caution or offence is involved will be treated less sympathetically than where you have come forward and been open and honest about your circumstances. In certain cases (for example, disciplinary issues) KPMG has an obligation to report concerns about security cleared staff to the Issuing Authority, which KPMG reserves the right to do.

You are reminded that holders of National Security Vetting are expected to maintain the highest levels of personal integrity, honesty, and your discretion is paramount. You must never place yourself in a situation, in the UK or overseas where you could be open to compromise, pressure, or improper influence. Furthermore, you are responsible for any official information/assets in your possession and you must ensure these are not, under any circumstances disclosed to any unauthorised individual or organisation.

If you do encounter problems or feel something of concern has arisen, for whatever reason, please report the matter as fully as possible to KPMG's security vetting team and Security controller or your vetting provider as appropriate. Any conversations on vetting are dealt with in confidence with Security, HR & Welfare staff involved as appropriate to provide the best support to you and the organisation.

Important Things to Remember

- Please consult our Security Clearance and Managing Government Information webpage for further information and for any updates.
- Do let us know immediately if you have a change of personal circumstances, including, but not limited to, relationships, finances, health and residence (including shared occupancy).
- Do consult with the KPMG's security controller if you have any security concerns regarding an individual/organisation.
- Do consult the travel advice section on our webpage if you are travelling overseas (for business and pleasure).
- Do let us know if you are going on a global assignment.
- Do let us know if you no longer require your clearance.
- Do not advertise your clearance details on your CV, social media or networking/job sites.
- Upon leaving KPMG your clearance may be available to transfer to a new sponsor. It must be requested within 12 months otherwise it will expire and you will have to reapply. Please note the status and transfer of your clearance may be affected by any disciplinary issues related to your employment with KPMG.

This document reflects the clearance status on date of issue. It is not a certificate of clearance and should not be considered as proof of clearance and as such, should not be shared. Departments must check with the Security Clearance Team the validity of this clearance where an individual is moving to a new post.

Kind regards,

Security Clearance Team
